TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Michigan State University: Supply Chain Management Department,
East Lansing, MI (January 2009 – Current)

Graduate Level

SCM 932: Logistics Policy, Guest Lecturer (Fall 2011, Fall 2013)

- Presented and led Ph.D. class discussion on topic of supply chain risk and disruptions

SCM 876: Logistics Operations Methods and Systems (Spring 2010 – Spring 2015):

- Class purpose to understand:
 - Transportation management;
 - Warehouse and distribution center operations;
 - Third-party logistics providers; and
 - Integrated logistics network design and strategy

Undergraduate Level

SCM 373: Logistics and Transportation Management (Spring 2009 - Current):

- Class purpose to understand:
 - Transportation management;
 - Risk / disruption / security management;
 - Warehouse and distribution center operations; and
 - Integrated logistics network design and strategy

PKG 475: Packaging Economics, Guest Lecturer (Spring 2014-current):

- Presented and led class discussion on the economics of logistics

University of Maryland – College Park: Logistics, Business and Public Policy Department,
College Park, Maryland (August 2004 - December 2008)

Undergraduate Level

BMGT 476: Advanced Supply Chain Management (Spring 2007):

- Class purpose to understand tactical and operational management of supply chains with advanced software systems that build on top of ERP (enterprise resource planning) systems
- Emphasized issues related to creation of end-user value through supply chain cost reductions and / or service improvements
- Provided students hands-on experience with major ERP software in use by major companies – Oracle and SAP Advanced Planning and Optimization
- Ratings of 4.45 and 4.27 / 5

Undergraduate Teaching Assistant

BMGT 475: Advanced Supply Chain Management Strategy and Technologies:

- Implemented, configured, and supported faculty, teaching assistant and undergraduate student use of CAPS Logistics Software. (Fall 2005 – Fall 2006)
- Initiated and drove project to transition class from using CAPS to i2 Supply Chain Strategist (Fall 2006)

University of Iowa: Dept. of Management Sciences, Iowa City, Iowa (August 2001-May 2002)

Undergraduate Teaching Assistant

6K:70: Computer Analysis

- Taught two classes of Computer Analysis course (MSWord, Excel, Access, FrontPage, ASP)
- Responsible for creating and communicating of projects, also grading students' assignments
- Received Teaching Excellence Recognition for high TA ratings

DISSERTATION

Title: Supply Chain Disruptions: A Conceptual Framework and Towards a Theory on Decision Making

Committee Chair: Dr. Thomas M. Corsi

Members: Dr. Curt Grimm, Dr. Phil Evers, Dr. Sandor Boyson, Dr. Jennifer Blackhurst, Dr. Paul Schonfeld

Severe supply chain disruptions have a great impact on the firm. They can cause loss of sales to customers and lead to changes in the design and strategy of the supply chain. This research works focuses on supply chain disruption management. It presents an overall conceptual framework and a theoretical model, highlighting the decision making process of disruption recovery. First, the literature concepts surrounding supply chain disruptions – risk management, mitigation, crisis management, supply chain resilience, supply chain security, business continuity planning, and sustainability – are defined and differentiated, since these concepts often have overlapping factors that can cause confusion. After defining each of these concepts and the latest research findings, a framework for understanding the relationships among the concepts is developed. Second, this framework reveals a gap in the literature surrounding the disruption recovery and decision making process. While an initial disruption management model can be built using factors from the literature, data are collected by conducting multiple interviews and analyzed using a structured grounded theory methodology to produce a more complete model. This also has the effect of building theory from which propositions are developed surrounding discovery of the disruption, recovery team composition, decision-making, and others. These propositions can be tested empirically in future research.

DOCTORAL CONSORTIA

Selected to participate in the Decision Sciences Institute 25th annual Doctoral Consortium, Phoenix, AZ, November 2007

Selected to participate in the Council of Supply Chain Management Professionals annual Logistics Doctoral Symposium, Philadelphia, PA, October 2007

Selected to participate in the Academy of Management – OM Division annual Doctoral Symposium, Philadelphia, PA, August 2007

Selected to participate in the Production and Operations Management annual Doctoral Symposium, Dallas, TX, May 2007

TECHNICAL SKILLS

Supply Chain Software: IBM LogicNet, i2 Supply Chain Strategist – Transportation Bid Collaborator – Transport Modeler, CAPS TransPro – RoutePro – Supply Chain Designer, Oracle Advanced Supply Chain Planning ERP Module

CONSULTING WORK EXPERIENCE

UTi Worldwide Group, Long Beach, CA, USA (May 2005 – December 2008)

Senior Consultant, Supply Chain Design & Innovation

- Use i2 Supply Chain Strategist and Transportation Modeler to perform strategic supply chain analyses for global customers of UTi Worldwide
- Analyses include: import/export trade lanes, manufacturing and warehouse locations, transport mode use and utilization, foreign trade zone recommendation, and transportation routing
- Provide support for internal strategic initiatives through research, presentations, and recommendations

INTERNATIONAL WORK EXPERIENCE

UTi Worldwide Pte. Ltd., Singapore (December 2003 – July 2004)

Supply Chain Solutions Architect – Asia Pacific

- Traveled to various Asian countries to perform tasks and job duties (Sri Lanka, Hong Kong, Malaysia)
- Self-taught i2 suite of products to use for supply chain analysis
- Process mapped and analyzed supply chains for customers to streamline and make efficiency recommendations which included warehouse capacity analysis, fleet management and delivery schedules, production schedules, import requirements, and labor usage
- Coordinated and led team to implement process changes for customer in Malaysia
- Assessed software requirements for 4PL role of carrier bidding in India
- Provided analysis and solution on warehouse IT solutions schedules in Sri Lanka

Naigai Nitto Pte. Ltd., Singapore (August 2002 – December 2003)

Assistant Manager for Japanese freight forwarding firm

- Collaborated and worked with team for ISO 9000 re-certification process
- Created Logistics Training program, obtained OJT (On-the-job-training) Certification for company, and provided training to staff
- Created Intranet for company to promote company policies and objectives
- Worked to promote the use of VMI, SCM, and RFID with our customers
- Aggressively pursued sales with companies outside of normal clientele for future customer base
- Created and implemented company CARE program – including Recycling program
- Helped unify the management and promoted teamwork through communication programs

WORK EXPERIENCE

J. M. Swank, North Liberty, Iowa (October 2000 – August 2001)

Regional Dispatcher and IT Analyst (both positions held simultaneously)

RUAN Transportation Management, Des Moines, Iowa (January 1999 – August 2000)

Logistics and IT Analyst

LGI, Ellsworth, Iowa (Summer 1998)

Traffic Coordinator

Union Pacific Railroad, Omaha, Nebraska (Spring 1997)

Operations Analyst
